About Korean Ginseng?

Why is Korean Ginseng outstanding?

Because the earth on the Korean peninsula where Korean Ginseng is grown is very old.

Geologically, the Cenozoic layer is almost gone, and since it's the oldest earth in the world, it has taken on the vitality of millions of years. Ginseng needs to develop for 6 years until it is shaped like a human and is greatly influenced by its natural environment, cultivation techniques, and soil quality, so it truly becomes the fruit of the sky, earth, and human effort.

More functions than Ginseng – Korean Red Ginseng

Korea Ginseng is that good, but it was difficult to store for more than one week after harvest in an era of undeveloped transport methods. A type of reddish, dried ginseng was created by the washing, boiling and drying process for that reason. More wrinkled than fresh ginseng, it was called "Red Ginseng". This Red Ginseng contains more than twice as many types of ginsenoside (38) as ordinary ginseng (19 types) and latent ingredients in ginseng are activated during the boiling and drying process.

Red Ginseng is divided into grades according to shape and density. Heaven, Earth, and Good grades are round, while these grades become cut ginseng when cut and processed or tiny ginseng when just the fine roots are collected.

Heaven grade Ginseng has detailed insides and represents 1-2% of all Red Ginseng produced. It contains plenty of active ingredients, so is considered very valuable.
