We manufacture products using GAP-certified fresh ginseng that has passed through HACCP-certified health control standards, and all products go through regularly conducted self-quality inspections to produce the highest quality products to consumers.

Manufacturing Process

Step
01

Cultivation

Heukgwang select the best domestically grown fresh black ginsengs that have no cracks, no scratches, and only collect 6 years old ginsengs.

Washing

Ginseng washing process to remove soil or foreign substances with purified water. Select only the finest ginsengs according to strict standards and conditions from external and internal, such as the color, crack, and shape.

Step
02

Step
03

Distillation

Steam ginsengs with water vapor in the distiller at the temperature of 95°C for 3 hours and let it stay for 11 hours. Repeat the steaming and drying process 9 times total to minimize the loss of active ingredients and to obtain the best black ginseng.

Natural drying

Dry about 16 days with natural light and natural wind in the drying room. Steam and dry 9 times in total to minimize the loss of active ingredients and to obtain the best black ginseng.

Step
04

Step
05

Extract and packing

With the optimal technologies and know-how, extract as much active ingredients as possible in the super-precision temperature control extractor and pack them in an aluminum standing package for long-term storage.

About Black Ginseng

Black Treasure Black Ginseng Created by Sincerity

Black ginseng contains craftsmanship spirit for 50 days until it is made

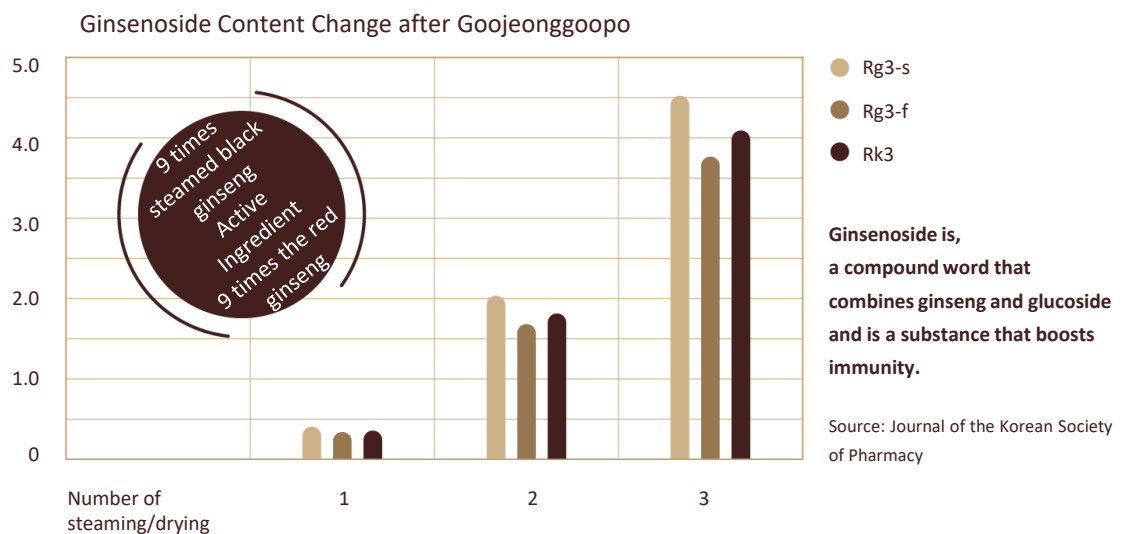

The name of ginseng depends on how it is made. The harvested ginseng is called fresh ginseng, and the dried fresh ginseng is called red ginseng, which is boiled 1-2 times. Black ginseng is made from a process that steams and dries nine times to improve the quality of medicinal herbs. In this process, the color turns black, which is why it is called black ginseng.

Effect of Black Ginseng
